Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-15 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 4,361,598 to Yoldas for the reasons set forth in the previous office action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 8, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments assert that the preamble of the instant claim must be treated as a claimed limitation because the recited catalyst, by definition, has structure that enables it to function as a catalyst. This line of reasoning is not convincing. Even assuming arguendo that applicant is correct, the only requirement that must be met is that any composition of the prior art must be capable of functioning as the claimed composition functions. The herein claimed composition is merely titanium dioxide, a known material. Clearly the titanium dioxide of Yoldas as well as the innumerable other titanium dioxides known in the prior art meet the requirement that they must be capable of functioning as a photocatalyst.

Applicants additionally argue that Yoldas does not disclose the heating step, and argues that the examiner's conclusion that such would have been obvious is contradicted by Yoldas who merely ages over time. This line of reasoning is not convincing. The examiner cites Fahey as evidence that during aging, temperature is also a factor, and temperatures of up to 150C are known.

Accordingly, the examiner maintains the position that absent some evidence of unexpected results, there is nothing unobvious in this claimed limitation, and it would not be expected to impact the final material.

With respect to the crystalline state, the applicant argues that Yoldas "admonishes against excessive heating". This is not convincing. "Admonishes" implies a teaching away, and Yoldas merely indicates that if it is heated that high, it will be crystalline, and if it isn't, it will not. Accordingly, the skilled artisan knows from Yoldas exactly how to make both crystalline and noncrystalline titanium dioxide and there is nothing unobvious about the arrival at either one of them. Crystalline titanium dioxide is a known compound and known to function as a photocatalyst material, and the burden has clearly been shifted to applicant to demonstrate that their material is somehow distinct from known compounds in the prior art.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
